So you can define your keyboard macros in your language and then switch to another language by running the application under the language of your choice. KeyMacro can read the keyboard layouts of every supported language, so it is always ready to work. Every keyboard layout supported by KeyMacro can be edited in the application. So if you don't like the way some character is presented, it is possible to change it. This can be very helpful if you are keyboard and you want to use your language's native characters.
