Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Lightroom are both similar in their primary purpose, which is to help photographers and graphic designers edit and retouch images seamlessly. However, there are a few differences between the two programs. Adobe offers Photoshop and Lightroom interchangeably as a stand-alone program, but Photoshop has a few tools that Lightroom doesn't offer, such as the Brush tool, Filters, and Healing tools. However, you can combine these features in Lightroom with features found in Photoshop with their integration with Adobe Bridge. Adobe also offers more photo editing features in Lightroom, but for people that just need to edit and retouch one photo only, Photoshop offer a simpler interface. So this may be a matter of personal preference as to which one you prefer.
